“ I didn't know you very well while we were in high school but it was nice reconnecting with you in the years that followed. I enjoyed our chats about baseball (even though you bashed the Sox) and our passionate Sons of Anarchy group discussions. We never ended up hanging out but I know you wanted to. God bless your family and RIP buddy. We lost a kind soul.

“ Having worked with Alan for a short time, I was able to see what at first seemed like a quite reserved man, turn into an outgoing and hilarious friend and team member. He had an incredible work ethic and always considered others before himself. He was punctual and consistent in all the work he did. So much so, his coworkers were able to improve themselves just based upon following his technique. His sarcasm and humor was similar to mine and that is a rare treasure in itself. My condolences to all friends and family.

“ *Alan was a good guy. He was thoughtful in his actions. He loved to tell me how bad he thought the Brewers or the Packers were at any given time.
He was a great dog dad and uncle. He will be missed*

“ Alan was one of the most kind hearted people you will ever meet. He was always willing to help family and friends and loved us all in his own special way. He always found the time to play with his nephew and niece whenever we were together. He was never outstanding in school. But he could tell you any sports stat you could want to know. He loved sports almost as much as he loved his dogs. He is already deeply missed and will continue to be missed by his family and friends

“ *Our hearts are hurting with this loss. Alan was stubborn, like the rest of us but was truly a great kid. The care that he gave to grandma was a great gift to her but also a help to us - selfless.
Alan you will be missed - RIP*
