“ Although age and geographic distance never permitted a closeness with Anna Belle, I know that my sister, Kathryn Gann Stafford, was very close to both Anna Belle and Nancy through the school years of their lives and shared some summer vacations together on the farm or in town. In fact, when our one room country school was being consolidated into Harrisburg, Kathryn threw a hissy fit until they changed it to Galatia so she could be in high school with David, Anna Belle, and Nancy. David was the high school basketball player that I wish I could have been. Therefore, I also went to Galatia from Grade 3 thru high school, and owe much gratitude to teachers and classmates of my time there, plus their parents, Alf and Charlotte, were serving as custodians at that time in the high school. Many memories from a younger cousin looking up to the older and smarter cousins. They set a great example which I tried to follow. Praises for their examples although they may have never known. I believe there were 27 descending grandchildren from Andrew Milton and Martha Angelina Gann, and I am nearly the youngest, and have assembled considerable family history should anyone be interested in knowing a bit more of the Gann history. Robyn has my contact information.

My condolences and sympathy on your loss and thanks for sharing with me.
