“ I never had the honor of teaching Connor but I did have the honor of bonding with him through our hallway interactions! In 2nd grade he was fascinated by my love of Harry Potter and then he was curious why I changed my theme to Star Wars in the 4th grade. This is how we became hallway buddies, whether it was in the hallway of 2nd grade or the hallways in 4th grade we would chat every morning. We would chat about Minecraft and I remember him asking for a copy of my Enderman Area and Perimeter worksheet! Every morning he would fill the 4th grade hallway with so much happiness. He was like a ray of sunshine, Connor, you're probably looking down from above sending out your smile of sunshine and love and you will be forever in our Greenman hearts! ROAR little Greenman Lion! Lot of Love Mrs.M

“ When I think of Connor the first thing that comes to mind is his gigantic smile and even bigger heart. He was an amazing, bright, caring, funny, creative, hardworking student, and one that will always hold a special place in my heart. I enjoyed having him in my class and knowing that each morning I would be greeted by his warm demeanor and hear all about his newest interest - mainly his rock collection! Seeing his excitement and curiosity made my heart explode, and I loved listening to all he had to share. I remember he was always reading some type of non-fiction book, and actually had to laugh when I suggested he try more fiction chapter books and was met with a classic Connor look of, “Really, Miss Dumais?!” They really weren’t his style, as he loved learning as much as he could about anything that interested him. I learned so much from Connor during that year of teaching (especially about Minecraft) and am so blessed to have crossed paths with him in my lifetime. Connor will be greatly missed and remembered always.

“ I loved how Connor would get to school and be so excited to show off the most recent treasure he had collected (especially if he collected it on his way to school). He loved books on weather, wars from the past, old army vehicles, natural disasters...any book he could learn as many facts as he could. He always had a big smile and wanted to help everyone. He loved talking about his Grannie and his first nephew Bash, as he called him. I will never forget his love of Minecraft. You will be greatly missed. You will never be forgotten!!!
