“ There are too many childhood memories to count, but she was always there with popsicles and a bandaid when needed. She never seemed to mind the constant flow of kids in and out, and above all loved her family unconditionally. RIP.

“ Granny was one of a kind. The first time I ever saw her she was outside with one of the kids. I was too shy at the time to introduce myself but Jordan said she told him I was very beautiful. From that moment on, I couldn't help but love her as one of my own family members. And she accepted me as her family as well. I will always love and appreciate her. Was always thinking about me and others she loved every single day. She didn't go out much but I had the honor of her being at my graduation and I couldn't be any happier that she chose to come watch me and cheer me on in that's special moment. Love you always granny ❤️
