“ I have so many memories of Sandi because we nearly grew up together when her family lived in Maywood and we lived in Bellwood. I did not see her often in recent years because we lived so far away, but every time I came to Chicago she was very welcoming and cheerful. I think my favorite memory of her occurred when we visited Chicago with our young twin grandchildren. Sandi and her sister ran out of the restaurant screaming, "Here come the twins to see the twins."
