“ As Colonial Cafe regulars, we had the pleasure getting to know Vern in the past a couple years. What a sweet, sharp, and fun man. My husband, Tell, and Vern were both raised in the south and loved their sweet, sweet, sweet iced tea. Vern was kind enough to bring us some delicious cantaloupe he'd picked up at the Farmer's Market last summer. He too was generous with his home grown tomatoes. We teased him a lot and he returned the favor. Just last week, when I suggested to Vern he encourage Tell to go out Christmas shopping, he quick-wittedly responded, "So, Lisa, what would you like at the Dollar Store?" Through Vern, we met Bobbi and Dick Angell whom Vern adored. Vern was a joy and he leaves a large hole in crazy Colonial family. May memories filled with love and laughter provide comfort to you and may God be with you. With sympathy, Tell and Lisa Coffey
